Falcon promising to balance the budget

B.C.'s finance minister promises to balance the books within three years despite a less-than-rosy economic forecast and a ballooning deficit due to a vote to dump the HST.

Kevin Falcon said Thursday the first quarterly report since last month's HST referendum includes a forecast $2.8-billion deficit for 2011-2012, reduced growth and possible spending cuts.

Much of the deficit increase is caused by the $1.6 billion B.C. must repay Ottawa for federal HST funding. The report concluded that the decision to drop the HST will have a three-year cumulative effect of $2.3 billion on the budget.

Falcon said B.C. will negotiate with Ottawa on how it will repay the HST money.

He said the deficit was originally forecast at $925 million, but was reduced to $309 million in July when the province released its final budget accounting numbers for the fiscal year.

Falcon said despite the increased deficit forecast, he's still promising to balance the budget by 2013-2014 even though the quarterly report forecasts a $458-million deficit for that budget year.

The government plans to tighten spending in an effort to make the balanced budget target, which is required by law, he said.

Suspect in boy's search has criminal record

► Kienan Hebert was last seen Tuesday evening when he was put to bed in family home ► About 200 people were involved in initial ground search

The man at the centre of the dramatic search for a three-year-old boy who disappeared from his home in the Kootenays has an extensive criminal record, including a conviction for sexual assault that dates back to the 1980s.

Kienan Hebert disappeared from his home in Sparwood between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, setting off a frantic search of the surrounding area and then an Amber Alert, which was issued Wednesday evening.

The Amber Alert named Randall Hopley, 46, as a suspect, and the RCMP have said they're hoping to speak to him about the boy's disappearance. He is believed to be driving a brown 1987 Toyota Camry with the licence plate 098 RAL.

Hopley, who police say has no known connection to the boy, has a criminal record that covers most of his adult life and is currently on probation. In the mid-1980s, Hopley was convicted of sexual assault and sentenced to two years in federal prison, the National Parole Board confirmed. He finished serving that term in 1987.

Kienan's father, Paul Hebert, said he was holding out hope that his son will soon be back at home safe and sound.

"We have eight kids. Our six-year-old has had three heart surgeries, and now we deal with a kidnapped child — to me, kidnapped; he also could be lost, we won't speculate on what's going on. But we hope for the best for Kienan's safety and that he'll be home safe."

City is red-hot to be greenest

- We're ranked second-greenest in North America behind San Fran
- Water, waste are the new targets

ARIANA KAKNEVICIUS
VANCOUVER@METRONWS.CA

Vancouver received its ranking as the greenest city in Canada and the second greenest in North America (behind San Francisco).

Now it wants to work on improving the two categories it scored the worst in: waste and water.

Even though Vancouver did land in the top 10 in each of the nine categories, the city has set a goal of being the world's greenest city by 2020.

And that means being the best all around.

The city's new compost program will make a huge positive impact on reducing waste, said Andrea Reimer, lead counsellor on the Greenest City Action

"There is no shame being behind San Francisco."

ANDREA REIMER, LEAD COUNSELLOR ON THE GREENEST CITY ACTION TEAM

Team. "Thirty-five per cent of our waste is food," said Reimer.

"We have a new program starting where two neighbourhoods will have biweekly garbage and food-scrap pickup, and if that is successful, we will work toward that happening for the whole city."

A water conservation program was also approved in July that should make a significant impact.

Reimer is very satisfied.

"We can't go from zero to 100 in a year," said Reimer, "but we are on a very good timeline." WITH FILES FROM THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dark summer for hockey world

► Fans reeling from another death of a former Canuck ► Candlelight vigil on Saturday for Pavol Demitra

PHYLICIA TORREVILLAS
@METRONEWS.CA

Messages of support and condolence continue to pour in at a makeshift shrine outside Rogers Arena to honour and remember former Canuck Pavol Demitra, who died in a plane crash in Russia that claimed the lives of 43 people early Wednesday.

Vivian Dinh and Annie Zhang stopped by Thursday afternoon to write their messages for the 36-year-old winger near a similar memorial created for ex-Canuck Rick Rypien, who died last month.

"He was always willing to play," Dinh said. "He's always been really good in the shootouts, and that's what I remember most: him always owning that."

Fans hung a Slovakian flag and arranged candles in the shape of the Slovakian coat of arms as a tribute to Demitra's home country.

It's been a dark summer for the Canucks, with the Stanley Cup loss and Demitra's death coming on the heels of Rypien's passing.

But Dinh said these events shouldn't stop the Canucks from performing their best in the upcoming National Hockey League season.

"They'll have more fire in their bellies because they'll do it for Rick and Pavol," she added.

Demitra finished as the top point scorer and landed in the all-star selections during the Vancouver 2010 Winter Olympics while he played for Slovakia. He led the men's hockey tournament with 10 points and tied for the lead in assists with seven.

Demitra's sudden death will serve as a reality check, fan Josh Clark added.

"It just makes you realize that your life can change from one day to the next."

No riot charges until October, police admit

Business owners of the stores affected by the June 15 riot are busy working on victim impact statements ahead of criminal charges.

Downtown Vancouver Business Improvement Association (DVBIA) executive director Charles Gauthier and its members were briefed on the ongoing police investigations into the riot Thursday.

Although told charges won't be forwarded to Crown counsel until next month, police have asked businesses to start drafting impact statements.

"We have a role to play in this and we'll make sure members are finishing impact statements to provide to police," said Gauthier. "It's important to have their stories entered into the process."

JENNIFER GAUTHIER/METRO FILE

► A woman photographs graffiti on a plywood wall following the June 15 riot in downtown Vancouver.

Gauthier admitted DVBIA members have been anxious and even frustrated by the apparent lack of justice since looters ravaged approximately 60 businesses during the riot.

"I'm being asked by members, 'Why is it taking so long?' all the time," he said.

But once police Chief Jim Chu explained the situation at the briefing and said investigators are waiting for video evidence to be processed at a state-of-the-art lab in the U.S. before forwarding charges, much of the anxiety dissipated.

"I have faith in the judicial system," Gauthier said. "Police want to ensure they get the fullest extent of justice for us."

STREET RACE

Racers' rides going nowhere fast

MATT KIETYKA
@METRONEWS.CA

There will be no clean getaway for at least five of the drivers involved in a spectacular exotic-car street race last week.

The RCMP and Solicitor General Shirley Bond announced Thursday that the province is going forward with the civil-forfeiture process to permanently seize five of the 13 super cars busted in a Deas Island street race.

Bond said the B.C. Civil Forfeiture Office is compiling its case now and will file a claim in B.C. Supreme Court next week.

"This kind of behaviour is not going to be tolerated," Bond said. "(Civil forfeiture of exotic cars) isn't new, but certainly when you look at this case, it's pretty shocking when you have 13 vehicles involved."

The cars, driven mostly by new drivers, included a Ferrari 599, three Lamborghinis, and an Aston Martin DB9, among others.

Police say the drivers were racing in excess of 200 kilometres per hour during the wild daytime incident.

Mounties said they do not have enough evidence for criminal charges.

Bond would not say which of the 13 cars are up for forfeiture.

If the government's court claim is successful, the office could then auction off the cars and take part of the proceeds to pay for public-safety initiatives.

Travel-inspired sculptures

► Movie artist James Stewart drew inspiration from people he met during his voyage across the globe

The creative mind behind the prawn-like aliens in District 9 is debuting a bronze-sculpture exhibit of eight emotive pieces inspired by people he met travelling through 45 countries.

"Travel is not about a destination but the people along the way," James Stewart said about his exhibit, Pangea, which will be displayed at a remodelled building at 5 West Pender St.

Not enjoying the average tourist beach experience, Stewart prefers to go off the beaten track. This is where he finds the intensity of travel that is so vivid in his work.

"I don't want to get on a bus, I want to be the bus."

Stewart, who in addition to his work on District 9 has designed creatures for The Chronicles of Narnia, attended Vancouver Film School.

Despite the large overseas projects that he has worked on, he said he's happiest sculpting from Vancouver, a place he calls home.

His sculptures convey a level of intimacy as Stewart emphasizes personal flaws such as deep-set eyes and weathered skin to convey age, wisdom or power.

He self-studied anatomy to make the details in his work realistic, part of the reason for his success in film.

"The details give life," said Stewart, whose work has often been described as "voyeuristic."

He has a number of upcoming ventures, one of which involves another Vancouver film with possible creatures reminiscent of Men In Black.

Curling Club moves into Olympic digs

► The new Vancouver Curling Club at Hillcrest opens its doors this weekend.

► Eight curling sheets, licensed lounge, pro shop are part of facility

ARIANA KAKNEVICIUS
VANCOUVER@METRONews.CA

The Vancouver Curling Club will open its new Hillcrest Centre facility this weekend in the same building that was the venue for Vancouver 2010 Olympic and Paralympic curling competitions.

Brad Blackwell, manager of membership services, said that having the Olympics come through definitely brought out interest in many people who were not normally exposed to the sport.

There will now be eight curling sheets in the facility, a licensed lounge with a seating capacity for 200, a pro shop, locker-rooms, a meeting room available for rentals, and 17,000 square feet of floor space for off-season use and rentals.

The average curler in Vancouver is in their late 20s to early 30s, and the club is hoping to draw in a younger crowd.

The club expects that in the next five to 10 years, they will boost the roster for junior programs.

"It is a very generational sport," said Blackwell. "If your parents play, and you hang around here when you are growing up, that makes it easier for the kids to have interest and pick it up."

They are hoping to increase membership to 1,500 in the next four or five years from 1,000 now.

Open house

The Vancouver Curling Club is hosting an open house Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from noon until 5 p.m.

Protest continues over Pantages

PHYLCIA TORREVILLAS
@METRONews.CA

Opposition from local artists and Downtown East-side groups against a proposed development on the former Pantages Theatre site show no signs of slowing down.

DTES artists and groups gathered Thursday carrying boycott signs, claiming the Sequel 138 development will "displace, impoverish and harm" residents.

But property owner and developer Marc Williams said they are willing to invest private capital to help solve the need for mixed and affordable housing there. More than 40 organizations and 1,200 DTES residents signed a resolution opposing condos at the old Pantages site.

The words that arose from the Twin Towers' fall

The attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, had a profound impact on nearly every facet of society, including the English language.

University of Toronto associate professor of linguistics Rena Helms-Park outlines the ways in which 9-11 shaped the way we speak.

Ground Zero: The term was originally used to describe the site of the Hiroshima bombing of 1945. Now the phrase has just one definition — the site of the former twin towers.

Guantanamo Bay: Before the U.S.-led crackdown on terrorist activity, Guantanamo Bay was nothing more than a locale near Cuba, Helms-Park said. Once the American prison began housing suspected terrorists, however, the meaning changed. Now it's become a symbol of one wrong being used to right another wrong," she said.

9-11: They use to be three numbers North Americans could dial in case of an emergency. They then became shorthand for the event itself and all that resulted from it.

No-fly list: Prior to 9-11, there was little need for a list of people who were not permitted to travel by air. Helms-Park said the term is likely here to stay. Axis of Evil: The term, coined by former U.S. President George W. Bush to describe Iran, Iraq and North Korea, was invented to more clearly define the "war on terror."

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

Today, 10 years after, we still live in a 9-11 world.

It's a world of diminished expectations, a world darkened by fear and shadows.

But it's also a world with a few surprises up its sleeve.

The mastermind of 9-11, Osama bin Laden, is dead. You could argue that the War on Terror is over.

And Muslim nations, one after the other, have turned their backs on Osama's bogus jihad, opting instead for freedom and rebirth: The Arab Spring.

We, er, won.

But the cost has been almost too much to bear. America, not long ago the self-declared greatest nation in the world, is a spent force.

The War on Terror has drained the treasury, and no one's cheering for the man who tracked down bin Laden and ended the ruinous detour into Iraq. Barack Obama is down so low that everything looks like up to him.

It will take a long time for the shadows of 9-11 to dissipate.

Since that day, Canada has spent an extra $92 billion on security, too much of it frisking little old ladies and small children in airports. But do we feel any safer? Despite all the tedious precautions, one terrorist almost managed to blow up a plane, failing only because he was too clumsy to set his shoe on fire. With guys like that on the loose, it would be foolish to let down our guard. Is that a nail file in your purse, lady?

One of the darkest shadows of 9-11 is the spin. Otherwise enlightened people think it was our own fault, that Osama bin Laden was the instrument of our chastisement. Because we depend on Mideast oil. Because we support Israel. Because of our attitude.

Then there are those who seriously believe that 9-11 was an inside job, and proclaim it on lamp posts and the walls of buildings.

That the Pentagon attacked the Pentagon to manipulate public opinion into approving another war.

Weapons of mass delusion.

Still, 10 years after, Osama bin Laden is gone, there are fledgling "democracies" in Iraq and Afghanistan, and just try to smuggle a bomb onto an airplane in your under-shorts.

Somehow, we endure. We've learned that resilience and determination aren't pretty, but they work. And on our good days, we can look forward to a time when the light fills all the dark corners, where freedom and prosperity are the antidotes to danger and despair.

That's our mission. And it is not accomplished. Not even close.

There's one flight New Yorker John Balistreri will never forget.

He was on his way home on Singapore Airlines on Sept. 11, 2001, when all commercial air traffic was temporarily suspended.

Eight thousand lost, confused and in-shock airline passengers descended into Halifax and were met with loving, open arms.

"The emotions ranged from genuine shock at what was going on in NYC to genuine appreciation and warmth for the people I met in Lower Sackville while I was

"I will be catching up via email with everyone from up north as usual, trying to make sense of the fact that 10 years have already gone by since the time I was stuck there, unwittingly making new friends while trying to figure out if I lost any back home."

NEW YORKER JOHN BALISTRERI, WHO WAS STRANDED FOR FOUR DAYS

'stuck' in Canada," said Balistreri in an email interview.

He and about 280 other passengers on his flight were taken to Millwood High School in Lower Sackville. Other stranded passengers were sent to three other Halifax-area high schools or billeted in private homes.

"We had so many people from the area that volunteered that there were times we had to take names and say 'We'll call you,'" said former Millwood principal Phil Legere.

For the locals, it was something they could do to show support and help out during the crisis.

"When it was put in front of you, here's something you can do, I think everybody wanted to be part of it," Legere said.

Students, who had the week off, came in to take small children staying at the temporary shelter out to the park. Volunteers picked up passengers at the school to take them shopping for clothes.

"It wasn't just the generosity of the town, with their hospitality and volunteering. It was their genuine care and friendship for complete strangers that took me by surprise," said Balistreri.

"As a typical jaded New Yorker, to be able to have spent these torturous days right after the attack with such amazing, caring people did wonders for the way I was able to process what was going on while being so far from home."

► Trout Run, Pa., is partially flooded by the Lycoming Creek on Thursday.

Residents flee flood zone

► Nearly 100,000 people from New York to Maryland ordered to evacuate

Nearly 100,000 people from New York to Maryland were ordered to flee the rising Susquehanna River on Thursday as the remnants of Tropical Storm Lee dumped more rain across the Northeast, closing major highways and soaking areas still recovering from Hurricane Irene.

At Binghamton, New York, the wide river broke a flood record and flowed over retaining walls downtown as more than 20 centimetres of rain fell in some areas. Road closures effectively sealed the city off to outside traffic as emergency responders scrambled to evacuate holdouts who didn't heed warnings to leave neighbourhoods.

Most of the people ordered to evacuate their homes were about 80 miles downstream in Wilkes-Barre, where the river was projected to crest later Thursday at 41 feet, the same height as the levee system, officials said. Residents were ordered to leave by 4 p.m.

In Port Deposit, Maryland, rising water levels at the Conowingo Dam forced officials to open the floodgates and order the evacuation of most of the Susquehanna River town's 1,000 residents.

Evacuation orders were issued Wednesday to some 20,000 people in Binghamton and neighbouring communities along the Susquehanna. More than 70,000 residents in Wilkes-Barre and Kingston were told to leave. So were people in about 170 homes about 90 miles downstream in Harrisburg, where crews put sandbags around the governor's mansion, close their doors by noon.

At least nine deaths have been blamed on the storm that hit the Gulf Coast last week as Tropical Storm Lee and has slogged northward ever since.

Power out across U.S. Southwest

A major power outage knocked out electricity to up to five million people in California, Arizona and Mexico on Thursday, bringing San Diego and Tijuana to a standstill and leaving people sweltering in the late-summer heat in the surrounding desert.

Two nuclear reactors were offline after losing electricity, but officials said there was no danger to the public or workers.

San Diego bore the brunt of the blackout that started shortly before 4 p.m. PDT. Most of the eighth-largest U.S. city was darkened. All outgoing flights from San Diego's Lindbergh Field were grounded and police stations were using generators to accept emergency calls across the area.

Parts of Orange County regained power Thursday evening, but officials said most people would remain in the dark through the night.

The outage was likely caused by an employee removing a piece of monitoring equipment that was causing problems at a power substation in southwest Arizona, officials said.

Rebels driven to catch Gadhafi

Libya's new rulers say they have dedicated a special unit of fighters to track Moammar Gadhafi, listening in on his aides' phone calls, poring over satellite images and interviewing witnesses.

Although leads come mostly from on-the-ground tips, help is also coming from France and other Western countries, according to a French intelligence official. Satellite-based transmission intercepts of suspicious phone calls try to pinpoint where Gadhafi might be. Small CIA teams are also assisting in the manhunt, according to former U.S. officials.

Gadhafi, who hasn't been seen in public for months, went underground after anti-regime fighters swept into Tripoli on Aug. 21. Capturing the ousted ruler would allow the former rebels to seal their grip on the country and shut the door on the possibility of Gadhafi's inspiring an insurgency against the new leaders.

After more than four decades under his authoritarian rule, Libyans are haunted by the question of Gadhafi's whereabouts, and the country has been awash with rumours that have put him everywhere from deep in a bunker under Tripoli to safe in exile in neighbouring Niger or Algeria.

A former rebel fighter, speaking on condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the matter, said revolutionary forces stormed a villa on Tripoli's outskirts last week acting on a tip. The fighter said they believe Gadhafi was at the villa and escaped less than an hour before the raid.

Interpol asked to join Gadhafi hunt

► Red notice seen as symbolic ► Rebels want to put ousted leader on trial for abuses during his rule

The International Criminal Court is seeking Interpol's help in arresting ousted Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi, the court's chief prosecutor said yesterday.

Luis Moreno-Ocampo is asking the international police organization to issue a "red notice" for Gadhafi and says arresting him is a "matter of time."

Gadhafi has not been seen in public for months. In an audio message broadcast yesterday by a pro-Gadhafi satellite TV channel based in Syria, he vowed never to leave Libya and called on supporters to keep fighting.

Moreno-Ocampo's office said he also sought Interpol help in the arrest of Gadhafi's son and one-time heir apparent Seif al-Islam, and the regime's intelligence chief Abdullah Al-Sanoussi.

All three men are accused of crimes against humanity over a campaign of murder and torture since February in an attempt to crush dissent. The court issued arrest warrants for them in June, but it has no police force of its own. It relies on national law enforcement agencies to execute arrests.

Interpol says that red notices allow warrants to be circulated worldwide with a request that the wanted suspect be arrested.

However, issuing red notices for the three Libyans would be largely symbolic because the UN Security Council already urged UN member states to co-operate with the international court when the council called on Moreno-Ocampo to investigate atrocities in Libya.

It also remains to be seen if Libyan fighters hunting Gadhafi and the new National Transitional Council leadership will hand over the suspects if they are captured.

Deliberate attack kills cherished pet

METRO CANADA IN LONDON, ONT.

Bonnie Cayen has hardly slept a wink this week.

"I've just been a mess," Cayen said. "She's my shadow. She followed me everywhere ... slept with me."

Cayen, 54, is talking about her three-year-old cat Maggie. Or, as she was affectionately nicknamed, "Boo Boo Kitty."

Maggie died Saturday evening after being hit by a pickup while sitting on a patch of grass by the road near her home in London, Ont.

"He literally stopped his truck, aimed it at her ... and gunned it," Cayen told Metro. "How can you do that to an innocent little cat?"

Cayen missed the attack, but neighbours saw the large, new-model navy-blue pickup that took Maggie's life. Witnesses gave chase, but they lost the truck a few blocks away when it entered traffic on a busy road.

Maggie was sort of a mascot for Cayen's neighbourhood. She sat on the corner where she died practically every night, waiting on Cayen to return home from walking her Bassett hound, Harry.

The black long-haired cat had a bit of a special place in everyone's heart, partially because of the way she came into their lives.

Like Cayen's other cats, Maggie was a rescue — saved from the park across the street.

Medvedev calls for overhaul of aviation safety

► Russian president vows to make changes in the wake of hockey-team tragedy ► 43 died in plane crash

President Dmitry Medvedev called for immediate changes in Russia's troubled aviation industry yesterday — including sharply reducing the number of airlines — as the country mourned a crash that killed 43 people and devastated a KHL hockey team.

The crash Wednesday killed 36 players, coaches and staff of the Lokomotiv Yaroslavl team, including European national team and former NHL players, drawing new attention to the poor air-safety records of Russia and other former Soviet republics.

Experts blame Russia's problems in the air on an aging fleet, weak government controls, poor pilot training and a cost-cutting mentality.

Investigators could not immediately pinpoint what caused the Yak-42 jet to crash into the banks of the Volga River shortly after takeoff from Yaroslavl, 240 kilometres northeast of Moscow. Workers laboured yesterday to raise the plane's shattered tail section, site of one of the plane's on-board recorders.

The two crash survivors — player Alexander Galimov and crew member Alexander Sizov — were both reported in grave condition Thursday after being flown to Moscow for treatment.

The plane crashed on the opening day of an international forum that was to showcase Yaroslavl as a modern and vibrant Russian city. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Changing the rules?

► Britain allows blood donation by gay men ► Canada may follow suit
 ► Tainted-blood scandal makes authorities wary of policy change

British authorities opened the door yesterday by allowing some gay men to donate blood, a move Canada's two blood collection agencies hope to follow.

But concerns about the safety of the blood supply that stem from the tainted blood scandal of the 1990s may lead Canada to adopt a more restrictive policy than the one Britain announced, some figures involved in the debate suggest.

"We're not totally closed to change at this point, but we need to go carefully," David Page, national executive director of the Canadian Hemophilia Society, said from Montreal.

Yesterday Britain joined South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Japan and several other countries in doing away with the now controversial lifetime ban on blood donations from gay men.

Starting in November, gay men in Britain who haven't had sex with other gay men for at least 12 months will be eligible to give blood. In South Africa the deferral period is six months; in New Zealand it is five years.

Toronto lawyer Adrian Lomaga, who has been fighting for this type of policy change in Canada, welcomed the news.

"Given the research I've seen to date, I think a 12-

"Our Canadian psyche is marred by the tainted blood scandal" month deferral period is reasonable. I'm comfortable with that as being a deferral period in Canada," said Lomaga, who filed a lawsuit against Quebec's blood agency, Hema-Quebec, when he was a student at McGill University.

"I don't think it would increase in any significant way the risk to the blood recipients in Canada."

However, spokespeople for both Hema-Quebec and Canadian Blood Services — which operates the blood donation system in the rest of Canada — acknowledged the agencies feel it's time for a change.

"Our hope is that we move away from a permanent ban to a timed deferral," said Dana Devine, vice-president for medical, scientific and research services for Canadian Blood Services. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Designer avoids jail time for slurs

John Galliano's drunken anti-Semitic ravings cost him his job at Paris luxury house Christian Dior and gave him a criminal record, but won't land him in jail, a Paris court ruled yesterday.

The court found Galliano guilty on two counts of "public insults based on origin, religious affiliation, race or ethnicity" — charges that carry a maximum sentence of six months in prison and fines of up to $20,000.

But the three-magistrate panel showed leniency, sentencing the legendary designer to an $8,400 suspended fine, which means it goes on Galliano's criminal record, but he does not have to pay it. The court did not give Galliano prison time.

Presiding judge Anne-Marie Sauteraud said the magistrates' clemency was in part due to the fact the designer had apologized to the court and the plaintiffs — who contended the designer showered them with a litany of racist and anti-Semitic insults in two separate run-ins at a Paris watering hole.

Saab drives closer to financial collapse

Troubled automaker Saab, known for its quirky, rounded cars, moved closer to financial collapse Thursday after a Swedish court rejected its request for bankruptcy protection.

The ruling means the Swedish brand, which has struggled financially since General Motors Co. sold it to Netherlands-based Spyker Cars in 2010, is now only days away from facing bankruptcy action from trade unions. Spyker has since changed names to Swedish Automobile.

The company has struggled to pay suppliers and staff, and production at its manufacturing plant in Trollhattan, Sweden, has been suspended for most of the year.

Swedish Automobile said it would appeal the court's decision before the deadline on Sept. 29.

It is unclear whether the court will accept the request. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

News in brief

No Twitter IPO on horizon

SOCIAL MEDIA. Expect to see more ads flowing through Twitter's stream of tweets in the coming weeks, but don't expect to read anything soon about an IPO from the online messaging service.

Twitter CEO Dick Costolo delivered that message in a Thursday meeting with a group of reporters at the company's San Francisco headquarters.

After bringing in more management talent and upgrading its service so it can handle big spikes in messaging, Twitter is ready to get more serious about building a successful business. But Costolo said that goal shouldn't be interpreted as a sign that five-year-old Twitter is poised to pursue an initial public offering of stock, a move that would require the company to reveal how much money it's making for the first time.

Twitter doesn't need the money because it just raised $400 million from venture capitalists and other investors. With such a large financial cushion, Costolo indicated Twitter is unlikely to pursue an IPO next year.

Rogers out of Olympics

► Media company will put its focus on Rogers Cup and Blue Jay season
► Says viewers have plenty of options for Olympic viewing

Rogers Communications won't be bidding for the Canadian broadcast rights to the 2014 Winter and 2016 Summer Olympic Games alongside CTV, its partner in previous coverage of two of the most-watched sporting series.

Keith Pelley, president of Rogers' media division, said Thursday that the company has decided to focus its budget and airtime instead on the Blue Jays season and Rogers Cup tennis tournament, opting out of the 2014 Winter Olympic Games in Russia and 2016 Summer Games in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Broadcasters "want to maximize the exposure ... and want to put the (Summer) Games in prime time, and that falls dead into the middle of the Blue Jay season and the middle of Rogers Cup tennis," Pelley said.

"When we looked ahead at Rio, again you are going to have the same challenge in terms of scheduling.

"Even though we have two networks, still, now you need three that are going to broadcast sports."

Pelley said that Rogers, which owns the Sportsnet cable channels as well as the Citytv and Omni television stations, decided that consumers already have "a plethora" of options when it comes to watching the Olympics.

Pelley said that while Rogers is out this time around, it will likely return in the future.

"We will certainly be very much open in 2018 and 2020 when perhaps our portfolio is a little larger." THE CANADIAN PRESS

► Finance Minister Jim Flaherty talks to reporters before the start of the Conservative caucus meeting on Parliament Hill on Thursday.

Finance minister points to size of import tariffs

Finance Minister Jim Flaherty concedes that government policies regarding tariffs on imports may be one of the reasons consumer goods cost less in the U.S. than in Canada.

A day after calling for the Senate finance committee to investigate the price gap, which one survey puts at 20 per cent, the minister said Thursday that high tariffs may be a problem.

He stopped short of saying they would be removed or reduced. He said that's what the Senate probe will help determine.

Tariffs on most goods between Canada, the U.S. and Mexico were phased out under bilateral and continental trade deals in the late 1980s and early 1990s.

There are still duties paid on some goods not covered by the trade agreements as well as a range of clothing, electronics and other products that come to Canada from Asia, Europe, South America and other areas.

Lattes and eating out adds to Canadians' debt

BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES

Canadians may be reducing their household debt in the face of economic uncertainty but they appear unwilling to cut back on morning lattes or meals at restaurants, a move that could net big savings. Nearly one-third of Canadians surveyed planned to spend more of their disposable income this summer on dinners out, up from 24 per cent last year.

Spending on lunches out and morning hot beverages was also expected to in-

TIFF, TUFF AND EVERYTHING IN BETWEEN

THE METRO LIST

MIKE BENHAIM
METRO

1 TV a la carte: The quintessential viewer's lament is that we have all this variety, yet there never seems to be anything on.

Well, rumour has it that you will soon be able to pick and choose your stations without subscribing to the full cable package. Just imagine all those single men with 50 channels of sports and porn.

2 Ice, ice, baby: It's almost hockey season again in Canada, and no one is more excited than the city of Winnipeg. The new and improved Jets unveiled their new uniforms this week. Now let's see if they can actually play.

3 Dancing with the boys: Sonny and Cher's child, Chastity, underwent a female-to-male sex-change operation a year ago. Now, Chaz's inclusion on Dancing With the Stars has sparked controversy among religious groups who claim he's an "abomination."

Shame on them for judging a man just for being born with a vagina. We will accept Chaz like anyone else and simply focus on the fact that he is overweight and unattractive.

4 Two and a Half Men: The new season will begin with the funeral of Charlie Sheen's character while the real Charlie lives on. The cruel irony is too much for me to bear.

5 X Factor: The most anticipated new show is unoriginal, but apparently American audiences crave more disdainful commentary from curmudgeon-extraordinaire Simon Cowell and more inane bickering with Paula Abdul. Contestants will be ridiculed at every turn. Just the kind of thing our highly evolved TV audiences enjoy.

6 Fall "Mad"ness: Capitalizing on the success of Mad Men, two new series' emerge this season. Pan Am and The Playboy Club are both set in the '60s, feature hot ladies in pantyhose and men in suits with shiny hair. So much nostalgia for an era when sexually repressed people drank and smoked unabashedly around toddlers, then packed them into the car for a swirly, fun-filled ride to their asbestos-insulated, lead-filled homes. Ah, those were the days.

7 TIFF: It's TIFF time again, and Toronto will host the world's hottest stars. While the festival is always a great draw, the true beauty of the experience is the gamble, so don't get caught up in Hollywood hype.

Take a chance on the unknowns, because it's cooler and more exclusive to say, "I just watched a three-hour movie in Swahili, and have no idea what I saw."

8 TUFF enuff: The fifth annual Toronto Urban Film Festival is a delightful bonus for commuters. This week, subway screens throughout the city are displaying a variety of submissions. The silent, one-minute films can be a welcome distraction from the fact that you may be among strangers who have chosen not to bathe. You have to be in T.O. to enjoy that experience, but if you can't make it, visit torontourbanfilmfestival.com

RE: Editorial cartoon
published Sept. 8

In light of the deaths this summer of three hockey players and the crash of the plane in Russia on Thursday, I found it sickening that your newspaper would publish this cartoon. It is disgusting and insensitive and should never have seen the light of day. I can only hope that it was meant to promote concussion awareness, but, come on, take another look. Too bad, I really enjoyed this paper up till now.

JOHN COLLINGS, LONDON

I am a regular reader, and I'm not usually one to complain about anything, but I just had to write in and say that I found the comic on September 8th to be in extremely bad taste.

Your cover story is about 43 people being killed in a plane crash, many of them professional hockey players with families, and then think it is appropriate to run a comic poking fun at dead hockey players? This would be bad form at any time, but in light of what JUST happened I find it absolutely disgusting.

Somebody had too many fermented apples, again

A seemingly intoxicated moose has been discovered entangled in an apple tree by a stunned Swede.

Per Johansson says he heard a roar from his vacationing neighbour's garden in southwestern Sweden late Tuesday and went to have a look. There, he found a female moose kicking about in the tree. The animal was likely drunk from eating fermented apples.

With the help of police and rescue services, the 45-year-old Johansson later managed to set the moose free in part by sawing off tree branches.

But the animal appeared confused and wandered into Johansson's garden, where she was still resting Thursday.

Johansson said the moose appeared to be sick, drunk or "half-stupid." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Walsh and America's Most Wanted are moving to Lifetime after 2 decades on Fox.

Synopsis

The story begins with patient zero, Beth Emhoff (Gwyneth Paltrow), an executive who carries a disease from Hong Kong to Minneapolis. Twenty-four hours later she is dead and a modern day plague has begun. Add in a meddlesome blogger (Jude Law), medical emergency personnel (Marion Cotillard, Laurence Fishburne and Kate Winslet) and widespread panic and you have SARS, Soderbergh style.

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

► Jude Law, center, is just one of the big names in the star-studded cast of Contagion.

The cold and clinical

► Contagion — a story about a modern-day plague — arrives just in time for flu season ► Crouse and Breslin concur; it's an entertaining medical procedural Richard: Mark, Contagion is The Towering Inferno with germs, an all-star disaster movie in the mode of Irwin Allen's 1970s spectacles. It's a generally more serious affair than the Allen cheesefest but they both beat with the same pulpy heart. Each movie takes itself a bit too seriously — although the scene that gives new meaning to the phrase, "picking Gwyneth Paltrow's brain," seems geared for gruesome laughs — and has too many characters and tries, with varying levels of success, to pluck at your heartstrings.

MB: Well, Paltrow has always had a cerebral approach to acting, and this movie proves it. And the "cerebral" approach extends to the rest of the movie. Unlike you, Richard, I found it a bit aloof and clinical, which fit the topic. After all the science fiction movies about bad viruses, this one is closer to actual science. And the movie arrives just in time for flu season. I had to suppress a cough at the theatre, lest I get roughed up.

RC: I get what you mean by the aloof and clinical remark to a point. The Lawrence Fishburne story is an effective medical procedural. It's a bit clinical at times, like an episode of CSI set entirely inside the lab, but large parts of the story seemed unnecessary.

A plot line featuring Marion Cotillard in China, for instance, could easily have been removed with no noticeable (except for the absence of the lovely Ms. Cotillard) effect and the blogger story feels forced.

MB: Usually movies of this type focus on one family and we see the crisis (zombies, war, Contagion) through their eyes. Soderbergh is working differently here, as if conducting a survey of how this pandemic might affect different types of people in various social groups. Only the Matt Damon thread seemed to have any real emotion; but even his story is underplayed. As far as the Jude Law blogger, I wouldn't want to have missed his homemade Hazmat suit, which made him look like the cyborg he played in A.I. But it was fun to watch so many major actors in the small roles, especially Elliott Gould; and Demetri Martin, who barely had one line!

RC: I did enjoy the movie; I just thought it was a bit sloppy for a Soderbergh film. Having said that, however, it should do for touching your face what Jaws did for ocean side vacations.

MB: Ha! And not many people will crave Chinese food after the film. But I liked the movie, too, even if it sometimes felt like a grad thesis in epidemiology.

"ONE OF THE BEST FILMS OF THE YEAR!"

Creature

Genre: Horror
Director: Fred M. Andrews
Stars: Mehcad Brooks, Serinda Swan
🌐🌐🌐½

In an age where irony, self referencing and cruelty dominate the horror film, Creature is a refreshing throwback. A gothic, old-fashioned yet gory bit of trashy monster mayhem, the pic stars genre stand-by Sid Haig as a bayou-dwelling creep with a weird connection to a swamp demon called Lockjaw, a beastie that takes great pleasure in devouring the young, dumb kids who cross his toothy path. Part Creature From the Black Lagoon and part Friday the 13th, the fact this fun little flick is getting a wide theatrical release at all is cause for celebration.

🌐🌐🌐½

Being billed as this year's The Fighter, the mixed martial-arts drama Warrior pits two estranged brothers against each other as they each surge through the ranks of a multi-million dollar fighting championship. Though that sounds like an attempt at selling cinematic brutality to jacked-up MMA fans, director Gavin O'Connor (Miracle) spins an emotionally-intense story that delves into family dysfunction and forgiveness despite its predictable arc.

● STEVE GOW

Gainsbourg: A Heroic Life

Genre: Drama
Director: Joanne Sfar

This mildly unconventional biopic about the late French singer-songwriter Serge Gainsbourg benefits from a fine lead performance: Eric Elmosino is a dead-ringer for his character. The usual artist-career cliches are avoided, but the surreal touches left in their place feel more like a filmmaker imposing his style on a subject.

STUDENT CENTS

FINANCIAL ADVICE FOR STUDENTS

Brought to you by:

RBC Royal Bank®

HEMERAT/THINKSTOCK

GOOD PLANNING KEY TO MANAGING MONEY

BUDGETS ARE VALUABLE

If you're a post-secondary student with a full course-load, you may feel like your real home is the classroom. But of course that's not true. You have a home, or maybe an apartment. And it's all yours — or maybe just one-fifth of it, because you've got four roommates. For students in college and university, living arrangements can be crazy like this. Don't let your household budgeting be crazy too.

"Whether you're renting, leasing, or even buying a living space, good planning remains the key to managing your money well," says Kavita Joshi, Director of Student Markets, RBC. "Don't let big purchases or potentially long-term expenses like rent intimidate you. If you prepare a budget, and stick to it, you'll have a lot of control over the situation."

Budgets are valuable because they present a record of how and when you spend; without one, you can have only an intuitive sense of your own spending habits. Think about it: when you go grocery shopping, do you pick up an extra few things for the whole house? Do you do that often? Without a budget set aside for food, and a record of how much you bought for yourself versus others, you'll end up being owed a lot of money you may never see.

Should you need more money (like, to move out of that place), you'll find the situation less stressful if you know your financial options ahead of time. Surprisingly, Joshi recommends turning to the bank last when securing funds to pay for school. "Some people are more comfortable taking on debt than others, and not all financial options are the same anyway," she says. "Consider your savings, income, your family, bursaries, and other possibilities before applying for a bank loan. The bank will want to see a budget, and that takes some work. Then again, if you know how to budget, you may not need a loan at all."

RUNNING OUT OF CASH?

- There are tools and resources available to you, such as RBC's Better Student Life website (about money management) and Student Budget Check (an online budget calculator). Both are available at www.betterstudentlife.ca. Another tool is myFinanceTracker, which is a new online customizable financial management tool that will help keep tabs on your monthly spending. www.rbc.com/myfinancetracker
- Don't be afraid to ask for advice. For instance, RBC makes it easy by offering 20 minute advice events to help students find out how they can take control of their money. (www.rbc.com/studentevents)
- You must manage many new expenses, from tuition to housing. It's important to identify all of them, and assess how much you're actually spending. There are lots of moving parts, and it can seem overwhelming, but you have choices. You are the one in control of your spending, and in many areas you have discretion about whether, when and how much you spend. Explore all of your financial options (work, bursaries, loans, scholarships, and so on), and seek advice from experts like financial counsellors on campus, or your bank.

Cooper hits daytime TV

► Anderson debuts Monday on CTV and CTV Two ► Journalist to reveal a more personal side of himself ► Audience interaction will be key to show

Anderson Cooper helms a nightly news show on CNN, travels the globe covering breaking stories and handles occasional stints as a correspondent for 60 Minutes. But despite the packed schedule, he says his newest project — the daytime chatfest Anderson — won't wear him down.

"When you're doing something you actually really love then it doesn't really feel like work," Cooper explained earlier this year during a stop in Toronto to introduce media to the show.

"On Anderson there's going to be a studio audience of a couple hundred people and there's a lot of interaction with viewers.... That's really invigorating. That's fun and that kind of adds energy to your day rather than takes away energy."

But it will make for long days, Cooper admitted. The silver-haired newsmen expects to bank episodes of Anderson on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings and spend his evenings working on 360.

Cooper said maintaining his CNN gig was a condition of his move into syndicated daytime television.

"The appeal is really about storytelling — about being able to tell stories that don't really fit onto an evening newscast," said Cooper, whose 60 Minutes reports have included lighter celebrity fare on musicians like Lady Gaga.

"At night we focus on politicians, we talk to pundits. During the day I'm focusing on real people and people who are in situations, sometimes not of their making, who are facing challenges and overcoming those challenges. We'll be doing really a full range of topics whether it's social issues one day, a big celebrity interview the next day, some fun pop culture stuff the following day. We really think Anderson will be one of the only shows in daytime that really covers a full spectrum of stories."

Cooper noted that he'll be taking cues from another silver-domed legend — Phil Donahue.

"Not just because he's another white-haired guy but I grew up watching Phil Donahue and certainly, like Oprah (Winfrey), he really forged a path and really created this format," he said.

"I think his whole interaction with the audience

Skills to pay the bills

His 20 years as a journalist have included coverage of high-profile global events including the famine in Somalia, the Egyptian uprising, earthquakes in Japan and Haiti, and the war in Afghanistan and Iraq.

► Silver fox: His engaging delivery and distinctive coif made him a favourite among female viewers, especially — a factor that is expected to help him in his move to the more female-skewed daytime schedule.

was really interesting and I don't really see other shows doing that anymore. But that's definitely something I plan on doing."

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► "What I'm trying to do is just create my own show and create my own program and be authentic and be authentic to myself and make sure that the show is informative, is entertaining and there's value to it," says Anderson Cooper.

Jonas striking out on his own

▶ Former teen idol changes up his sound and returns with a more modern album ▶ Will he still draw crowds?

IAN GORMELY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO TORONTO

It's tough out there for teen idols.

Two years ago, toppling the Jonas Brothers from the top of the teen pop heap seemed unfathomable. Now they seem like a distant memory when compared to the superstar status of Justin Bieber and Lady Gaga.

Now 22-year-old Joe Jonas is striking out on his own and hitting back these young upstarts with their own game. Abandoning the pop-rock sound that garnered his band Rolling Stone covers and legions of teenaged fans, Joe's debut, Fast Life, which drops next month, leans heavy on dance floor beats and R&B tropes.

"It's the kind of music that I've always loved," he told journalists during a recent conference call to promote the record and his upcoming club tour that brings him to Toronto Saturday night. "I've always really been into dance music and electro music, hip hop music. I've always been really intrigued to kind of go on my own path to create something different."

Whatever the results, it's clear that Joe is ready for whatever comes his way. "You just got to have confidence going into it. And I'm feeling pretty excited and pumped to be able to hit the road."

THE BEST ROCK DOCUMENTARIES EVER MADE

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

Is a documentary to start the 36th annual Toronto International Film Festival? And a rock doc? Makes sense, really, given that the festival and the band involved pretty much share the exact same birthdate. As the first-ever TIFF was kicking off in September 1976, the band that would become U2 were having their first rehearsals at the drummer's house.

And the Davis It Might Get Loud Guggenheim-directed From the Sky

► From the Sky Down is showing at this year's Toronto International Film Festival.

Down isn't the only rock 'n' roll documentary at TIFF this year. Pearl Jam 20, a film capturing that band's first two decades — a Cameron Crowe production, no less — will also get a showing before it has a brief one-night run in theatres on the 20th.

And let's not forget Paul Williams is Still Alive, a film about the diminutive songwriter and actor who starred in Phantom of the Paradise and, more impressively, wrote Rainbow Connection for Kermit the Frog.

This got me thinking about putting together a list of the best rock docs of all time. Here's what I came up with.

The Last Waltz (1978):

Martin Scorsese's fascination with rock docs began here. The Band's final concert at the Winterland Theatre in San Francisco set the bar high for years afterward.

The Kids Are Alright (1979):

I was such a Who fan that when this came out, I sat through three straight showings in the theatre.

Rock & Roll: An Unruly History (1995):

A PBS mini-series based on the writings of academic Robert Palmer.

Dig! (2004):

A side-by-side comparison of the Dandy Warhols and the Brian Jonestown massacre, two bands that emerged out of Portland on equal footing but had decidedly different (and tragic) career paths.

Joe Strummer: The Future Is Unwritten (2007):

A brilliant look back at the life of the Clash frontman, warts and all.

And I know that the band wasn't real (at least when they shot the mock-doc in 1984), but every music fan needs to watch This Is Spinal Tap. A scary amount of truth lurks therein.

Hudson a 'brat': Dad

► Father has nasty words for actress Kate Hudson in his new book

Bill Hudson, Goldie Hawn's ex-husband and Kate Hudson's estranged father, has some stories to tell in his new book, 2 Versions: The Other Side of Fame and Family — and chances are Kate won't be too thrilled about them.

"She has done stuff which is just awful," Bill writes, according to Radar Online. "She is a spoiled brat in my eyes." His biggest gripe? That Kate hasn't been in touch with her grandmother, who is battling Alzheimer's.

"Kate doesn't have to talk to me and she doesn't have to give her a dime of her millions. All I want is for her to call and say, 'Hi grandma,' before it's too late," he writes. ● METRO

Gaga has no problem being alone

She may be a successful touring pop star with at least two vibrant onstage personalities, but Lady Gaga admits she spends most of her time by herself — not that that's a problem.

"When you're alone as much as I am, you become accustomed to your solitude and embrace it," she tells Harpers Bazaar.

"I work about 16 to 20 hours a day. And when I'm future performances. I don't take much time off." ● METRO

Would Paltrow cheat on hubby?

Gwyneth Paltrow isn't judging her friends that step out on their spouses — but she's not keeping quiet about it, either.

"Life is complicated and long, and I know people that I respect and admire and look up to who have had extra-marital affairs," Paltrow said. "We're flawed. We're human beings, and sometimes you make choices that other people are going to judge ... I think that the more I love my life, the more I learn not to judge." ● METRO

Jessica Simpson loves her twins

Jessica Simpson heard the reports that she's planning to get a breast reduction in advance of her upcoming wedding, and she's not too happy about them.

The voluptuous singer took to Twitter to clear things up.

"Been getting lots of questions about this alleged breast reduction," Simpson wrote.

"Not to worry. I love my boobies! They aren't going anywhere!"

► Dishes from India are all about spice ► As the seasons change, bring back the heat with this Tandoori Grilled Chicken and Quick Curry Chicken

THE CANADIAN PRESS/H/O

NEWS CANADA

► The Tandoori Chicken serves four, while the Quick Curry Chicken makes five servings.

These recipes offer a contemporary take on Indian cooking by employing unlikely ingredients.

Grilled Tandoori Chicken

Last-minute guests? Don't fret. These skewers taste amazing and require minimal work. Tandoori paste is available at most grocery stores, but in a pinch an Indian paste can be used. The skewers are excellent with basmati rice as well

Preparation:

1 In bowl, whisk yogurt with tandoori paste and 15 ml (1 tbsp) lemon juice. Cut chicken into bite-size chunks; add to yogurt mix and stir. Refrigerate, stirring occasionally, for 30 mins or covered overnight.

2 Cut each peach into 4 wedges. In bowl, toss peaches, 5 ml (1 tsp) lemon juice, oil and 30 ml (2 tbsp) coriander.

3 Thread chicken onto 4 skewers; thread peaches onto 4 skewers. Sprinkle all with salt. Place chicken on greased grill over medium heat; grill, turning for 7 mins. Add peach skewers; grill until juices run clear when chicken is pierced and peaches are warm, 3 mins. During last min of cooking, grill naan.

4 To serve, top each naan with 1 peach skewer, 1 chicken skewer and dollop of raita. Sprinkle with remaining coriander. THE CANADIAN PRESS/FOODLAND ONTARIO

Quick Curry Chicken

Using a jar of store bought curry paste gives authentic flavour to this easy dinner. Adjust the spice level as you make it or substitute hot for the mild if you prefer.

Preparation:

1 In deep saucepan heat oil over medium-high heat. Add onion and stir-fry 3 mins; add mushrooms and stir-fry 4 mins. Stir in garlic, 3 tbsp (45 mL) curry paste and cinnamon; then add quartered chicken thighs and stir-fry 3 mins. Stir in tomatoes with juice; cover and reduce heat to mediumlow and cook 10 mins. Taste and stir in more curry if desired. Add cauliflower and lentils; bring to boil, cover and cook about 5 mins. Stir in cilantro and serve topped with a dollop of yogurt. Accompany with naan bread or basmati rice. NEWS CANADA

A glass of wine to remember Sept. 11, 2001

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

I am always amazed at how wine works its way into so many of my life's most memorable moments. I don't necessarily mean the enjoyment of experiencing a great wine in conjunction with a life-changing event because sometimes it can get in the way. Sometimes, it's just part of the fun. Other times, it has a supporting role in the events.

Ten years ago this Sunday, I was at work. It was a Tuesday. I was having an average day, like so many of you. Mine just happened to involve tasting about 50 wines. One of my co-workers interrupted me to say a plane had crashed into the World Trade Center in New York. We turned on the TV in time to watch the second plane hit.

Of all the things I remember about that day, the fact that I was tasting Italian wine has never left me and I've uncorked a bottle from Italy to commemorate 9-11 every since.

This year, it will be the Rocca delle Macie 2007 Famiglia Zingarelli Chianti Classico ($18.95 - $21.98).

It's classically designed Tuscan red with a rich, full-bodied expression of cherry fruit and oak that's a fine partner for reflection.

rice and toss with two spatulas to coat rice.

- 4 Place piece of nori on a bamboo mat (or piece of heavy-duty aluminum foil) with the short side facing you. Wet fingertips with warm water and pat about 125 ml (1/2 cup) of seasoned rice into a 5-cm (2-inch) wide strip on the bottom of the sheet.

- 5 Drizzle 5 ml (1 tsp) mirin sauce over rice; place 4 strips each red pepper, avocado and mango over the sauce; then sprinkle with 5 ml (1 tsp) of toasted sesame seeds. Using bamboo mat to help, roll maki closed, getting mat out from inside maki as it rolls up. Press closed mat over roll to seal roll. Trim ragged edges and slice into 6 pieces with a wet sharp knife

- 6 Repeat with remaining nori, rice, mirin sauce, pepper, avocado and mango. Serve rolls with sauce. THE CANADIAN PRESS/RICEINFO.COM

► This recipe makes 24 rolls.

Ingredients:

- 500 ml (2 cups) water
- 250 ml (1 cup) short-grain brown rice
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) mirin
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) low-sodium soy sauce
- 15 ml (3 tsp) sugar, divided
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) rice vinegar (not seasoned)
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) salt
- 4 pieces toasted nori seaweed
- 16 pieces each julienned red bell pepper, avocado, peeled mango
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) toasted sesame seeds

Corn Edamame Salad

Preparation:

- 1 Toasting walnuts: In a large dry skillet over medium-high heat, toast walnuts, stirring occasionally until lightly brown, 2 minutes.
- 2 Dressing: Blend walnuts, olive oil, garlic, miso paste, vinegar, honey and water in a blender or with an immersion blender until smooth; set aside.

- 3 In saucepan, bring 750 ml (3 cups) of warm water to a boil and add edamame. Cook for 2 to 3 minutes. Drain and rinse under cold water and place in a large bowl. Add corn, peppers, onions and dressing. Mix well and season to taste. Serve. THE CANADIAN PRESS/CALIFORNIA WALNUT COMMISSION

Ingredients:

- 125 ml (1/2 cup) walnut halves, toasted
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) olive oil
- 1 clove garlic
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) miso paste
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) white wine vinegar
- 5 ml (1 tsp) honey
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) water
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) shelled edamame
- 750 ml (3 cups) corn
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) each diced red/orange pepper
- 2 green onions, sliced
- Salt and pepper, to taste

Packers make a stand in NFL season opener

Aaron Rodgers prevailed in an opening-night duel with Drew Brees and the Green Bay Packers came up with a goal-line stand on the final play of the game to beat the New Orleans Saints 42-34 on Thursday night. Rodgers threw for 312 yards and three touchdowns. Brees threw for 419 yards and three majors, including a touchdown to Jimmy Graham that cut the lead to eight with 2:15 left.

KHL team will be rebuilt

- Russian league boss says team that lost 27 players in crash will play this season
- Other teams will supply players to Lokomotiv Yaroslavl, may pay their salaries

The Russian hockey team whose players were killed in a plane crash will be rebuilt in time to take part in this year's Kontinental Hockey League season, according to the league's leader.

All but one of the 28 Lokomotiv Yaroslavl players travelling to Belarus for their first game of the season were killed when their Yak-42 jet crashed on Wednesday.

KHL chief Alexander Medvedev said Thursday that each team in the league should volunteer up to three players each toward building a new Lokomotiv squad. He says it will free up between 40 and 45 players for Lokomotiv to pick.

"The 18 KHL clubs whose representatives I have managed to speak with have supported this proposal," Medvedev said in remarks to Atlant Mytishi hockey club's press service.

Medvedev said up to 35 players have already put their names forward to join Lokomotiv, but he didn't specify any names.

He said one idea was for players' salaries to be underwritten by the teams from which they had been transferred to Lokomotiv for the duration of one season.

"This is still an unofficial decision, but it has been supported by everybody, and many are putting this idea forward themselves," Medvedev said.

Along with recruiting from other clubs, Medvedev said Lokomotiv will promote five players from its youth team.

The KHL is an international club league that features 24 teams from Russia, Belarus, Kazakhstan, Latvia and Slovakia.

Lokomotiv is a leading force in Russian hockey, winning the Russian League championship in 1997, 2002 and 2003. The team finished third in the KHL last season.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 If you sit back and wait for good things to come your way, they will. Enjoy your good fortune. You deserve it.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 A friend will ask you for relationship advice. Make it clear your advice doesn't come with a guarantee.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Honesty is essential if you are to resolve an issue that has been dragging on for weeks.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Something will happen today that shakes your faith in your five senses. You have a sixth one, too.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 The Sun in Virgo will help you cash in on your insights and ingenuity today.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 Mercury moves back into your birth sign today, helping you to make sense of things that too often seem random or meaningless.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Don't take it personally if a friend is critical today. He or she is most likely more annoyed with him or herself.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You are desperate to do something more exciting, something that rises above the mundane.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Be more adventurous today and don't worry too much if you tread on toes — that's what toes are for.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 What happens over the weekend will challenge you to up your game. You're a mover and shaker.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You will have to leave something behind over the next few days. It will soon be replaced, no worries.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 You will be on the go from dawn to dusk today. This evening, you'll really speed up. SALLY BROMPTON

Lucky 7, Hope they publish this so you can read it on the train. Have a happy swords day! HUNNIEBUNNIE

Dear Charles, It was awhile ago, but I was a fool that morning. To be honest, I was a little overwhelmed and not thinking. Two seconds after you left, the conversation caught up to me and I wanted you to come back so I could apologize. So if you can forgive my tactlessness, I would love to go out for some intelligent conversation with you. Regretfully, BOOKSTORE GAL
